As of July 1st, OHS regulations 2007 mandates the requirement for persons to have undertaken CONSTRUCTION INDUCTION training prior to undertaking construction work, (some exceptions apply).

The regulations allow WorkSafe to register persons to perform construction work based on evidence of completing CONSTRUCTION INDUCTION training and whilst existing red cards will remain valid, the current red card course will no longer be recognised as relevant evidence. Post 1 July the regulations require evidence of completing a new CONSTRUCTION INDUCTION training course that is fully endorsed or accredited.

Limited places are available for AWCIV Red Card Course Training.

To book now, phone the AWCIV on 9531 4703
